A Message From President Fred Zuckerman

Kentucky is at a turning point, and it is up to proud union members to stand up and make sure our great Commonwealth does not go in the wrong direction.

Starting last fall, with the election of Governor Bevin, we have seen our state slowly start to emulate the extremely anti-worker agendas that have gone into effect in places like Wisconsin. Frequent readers of our newsletter or web content should already know that Teamsters 89 has been fighting back by being part of a lawsuit against Bevin's illegal changes to the Workers Compensation Nominating Commission, a group that frequently decides the fate of injured workers in Kentucky. Unfortunately, things like board changes are only the tip of the iceberg of anti-worker legislation that could be headed our way if we don't keep Bevin and his allies in check.

To that end, we absolutely must fight with every fiber of our being to hold a pro-worker majority in the Kentucky House of Representatives. The State Senate has already been anti-worker for years, and now the Governor has joined their ranks. Should we lose the House this fall, the damage that will be done to our state would be catastrophic.

That's why it's important, now more than ever, for union members to get out on November 8th and vote for pro-worker candidates in the Kentucky State House. No matter who you vote for at the top of the ticket, remember that further down the ballot is where the fight for the future of unionization in Kentucky will be won or lost. After you vote for the Federal races, I implore you to continue down the ballot and vote in favor of the candidates Teamsters Local 89 has endorsed. Some of these candidates may be from a party you don't agree with on a Federal level, but party affiliations are very different on a State level. No matter what letter is by their name, or what party they affiliate with, these endorsed candidates are the ones who will fight to make sure destructive anti-worker laws like "Right-to-Work" and the repeal of prevailing wage never come to Kentucky.

We owe it to ourselves and our co-workers to make sure that our unions continue to thrive in this state. We owe it to our children to make sure that when they grow up, unions will still be a strong and positive force for working people in Kentucky. If we don't fight to win this battle now, it will cost us, our children, and possibly many generations to come.

We cannot let all that unions have won over the past century be lost by the stroke of a politician's pen. Do the right thing, elect pro-worker candidates, and let's keep Kentucky UNION STRONG!

2016 ELECTION KEY RACES IN

While every race in this year's election is important, the Teamsters 89 Political and pro-worker representatives holding a narrow majority in the Kentucky State House, is to keep or even improve that majority. We must ensure that candidates are elected who have been elected in Virginia, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana in recent years.

McKenzie Cantrell for Kentucky House District 38

In a time of political uncertainty, it is incredibly important for the working people of Kentucky to have advocates on their side in Frankfort. The hard-working Teamsters of Kentucky deserve to have a say in what happens at our state capital.

It is for these reasons that Teamsters 89 is proud to announce we are endorsing McKenzie Cantrell (D) for State Representative in the 38th House District.

"As an employment and labor attorney, McKenzie Cantrell has a proven track record of helping Kentucky's working families," said Teamsters 89 Political Director Jay Dennis. "She's devoted her life to helping working families."

"McKenzie will be a welcome new champion in Frankfort for working people," said Teamsters 89 President Fred Zuckerman. "Her expertise on labor and employment law is extensive. We know our members will be very well represented when she is in office."

Teamsters 89 only selects a candidate to endorse after vetting them through interviews and questionnaires to make sure they understand the issues affecting working people. McKenzie performed above and beyond expectations. She is well versed in not only large labor issues like "Right-to-Work" and Prevailing Wage, but in the day-to-day struggles of the average worker. Her history as a labor attorney gives her a much more in-depth and understanding point of view into what sort of challenges Kentucky's working people face than most other candidates.

Bill Miller, a Teamsters 89 member and resident in House District 38, agreed "I know she's made a career out of defending those that are defenseless. She's always worked for the people who need the most support, you know?"

"Here in Kentucky's 38th district we have hundreds of hard working Teamsters men and women, and those members deserve a State Representative who they can depend on. Someone they know will fight for them," said Teamsters 89 Communications Director Stephen Piercey, who is also a resident in HD 38. "That's why I'm very happy that Teamsters 89 has endorsed McKenzie Cantrell, because she is that person."

Given the challenges facing working people and their unions in Kentucky today, it is imperative that strong, pro-labor candidates like McKenzie Cantrell are elected and sent to Frankfort to defend us from out of state interests seeking to tear us down. Teamsters 89 is proud to endorse such a fighter for the working people of Kentucky.

ELECTION IN KENTUCKY

Legislative Action team have narrowed our focus to a few key races in Kentucky. With it is more important than ever for us to ensure that we elect candidates who will help us stop so-called "Right-to-Work" from entering our state as it has in West

James DeWeese for Kentucky House District 50

The hard-working Teamsters men and women in Nelson County have had a long line of politicians elected in their area who care nothing about the plight of working people. It is past time for these Teamsters to have an elected representative who understands and cares about them. That's why Teamsters 89 is proud to announce we are endorsing James DeWeese for State Representative in the 50th House District.

"James' history with the labor movement, and the Teamsters in particular, will be an invaluable addition to our allies in Frankfort," said Jay Dennis, Political Director for Teamsters 89. "It's not often we get the opportunity to vote to elect someone from our own ranks into the state legislature."

James is very well versed in the needs of working people. He has been a Teamster since he started at UPS in May of 1993. From there he worked his way up through ranks to become a steward, and eventually a Business Agent representing thousands of union members. He has made a career out of fighting for the rights of Teamsters men and women, and he will be able to draw on that expertise to represent those same members to an even greater degree when he is an elected State Representative.

"I can think of no one better for this job. James is a tireless advocate for his members and we're very proud to support him in his run for State Representative," said President Fred Zuckerman. "It's vital that union members get personally involved in politics like he is doing. When workers' issues are being discussed in Frankfort, no one could be better than a union member to advocate on behalf of the working people of Kentucky."

2016 ELECTIONS KEY RACES IN

Linda Belcher for Kentucky House District 49

Kentucky's 49th District is home to many Teamsters who have benefited from the strong leadership of State Representative Linda Belcher for the past two years. First elected in 2014, she has done an excellent job standing up for the working people of her district. Teamsters Local 89 is proud to once again endorse Linda Belcher for re-election in Kentucky House District 49.

Since being elected, Linda has served on the Appropriation and Revenue Committee where she has fought hard to secure funding in order to help the people in her district by rebuilding and improving its road infrastructure.

Linda has also served on the Labor and Industry Committee. In February of 2015 when so-called "Right-to-Work" was proposed to the committee, instead of simply voting nay or yay as everyone before her had done, Linda was the first person to take a moment to explain why she was voting against this destructive bill. She spoke eloquently and passionately about why unions were important to her and her family, and why anti-union laws like "RTW" had no place in our state.

"Representative Belcher has been a true advocate of workers in not only Bullitt County, but the entire Commonwealth", Jay Dennis said. "Because of her very public actions in denouncing destructive 'Right-to-Work' legislation, and her advocacy for prevailing wage and project labor agreements, we are fully confident that she will continue to represent the members of Local 89 as well as all working people".

We at Teamsters Local 89 applaud Linda for her stand against union-busting in Kentucky, and for her dedication to protecting and fighting for the working people of the Commonwealth. We are excited to see her continue her work for another two years after she is re-elected this fall.

ELECTION IN KENTUCKY

Dean Schamore for Kentucky House District 10

Teamsters in Kentucky House District 10 have been represented by Dean Schamore, a resident of Breckinridge County, since his election in 2014.

Some of Schamore's priorities are job creation, strengthening schools and making education affordable, improving transportation, making neighborhoods safer, and taking care of veterans. These are all goals that union members can relate to, and indeed are supported by labor organizations throughout the Commonwealth.

Schamore sits on several House committees, including Agriculture & Small Business, and Appropriations & Revenue. During his time on these committees he has succeeded in bringing $23 million dollars in transportation and highway funding to his district. This money has resulted in much needed road improvements for our members who live in Breckinridge, Hancock, and portions of Radcliff and Hardin Counties.

Teamsters 89 is proud to endorse Dean Schamore, and believe he will continue his strong service to the union members in his districts when he is re-elected to another two-year term.

James Sargent for Kentucky House District 53

Our members who live in District 53 have long been without a State Representative who cares about the problems facing working people in Kentucky. This November they will have a chance to change that.

James Sargent is a 16-year Communication Workers of America (CWA) member who has worked as a technician for AT&T for that entire time. As a long time union member, he can easily identify with the issues that working people need addressed.

In addition to his many years as a union member, Sargent has served on the Board of Directors for the Court Appointed Special Advocate, a group that helps children who are victims of abuse, neglect and dependency. He has also served on the Anderson County School Board since 2010, and even won the 2012 Kids First Advocacy Award for his work in establishing programs to build relationships between government and educators in order to enhance children's educational opportunities.

Teamsters 89 is proud to endorse a fellow union member, and a strong advocate for educating our children. Our members in Anderson, Spencer, and portions of Bulitt county would be well served to have such a passionate worker as their State Representative.

In addition to the five key races in Kentucky, there are plenty of other elections. On the following pages you can learn about some of the other candidates we have endorsed candidates, see page 13.

Michael Dile - Kentucky House District 25

A fresh face to politics, Dile has built his platform around labor issues such as equal pay for equal work, an improved living wage, protecting Kentucky's prevailing wage laws, stronger healthcare, a strengthened education system, and pay increases. He is also an advocate of pension protection for Kentucky's teachers (who just so happen to be union members).

Danny Basil - Kentucky House District 23

Basil's top two priorities if elected are education and roads/infrastructure. Both of these are very important to workers for the future of Kentucky, and are also major priorities of many labor organizations. Additionally, Basil is determined to contribute to the underfunded pensions of our friends in the teachers union, an issue that we Teamsters are also very passionate about.

Terry Mills - Kentucky House District 24

Representative Mills has always been a friend of Labor and Teamsters Local 89. In his time in the State Legislature, he has fought to keep Kentucky working by opening better job opportunity for workers and has also helped working families by reducing taxes and supporting stronger education for our children. We encourage all our members in District 24 to vote for this true friend of labor on November 8th.

Jeff Greer - Kentucky House District 27

Representative Jeff Greer has been one of Labor's most outspoken advocates in Frankfort. As a member of the Labor and Industry Committee, Representative Greer has stood against the scam of "Right-to-Work" and has protected Prevailing Wage and Project Labor Agreements. He also works tirelessly to protect our veterans, brothers and sisters currently serving, and their families not only in the Fort Knox area but the entire State.

Charlie Miller - Kentucky House District 28

Representative Miller has been a long-time ally of Labor in Frankfort, having been an elected member of the State House since 1998. He has consistently voted in favor of laws that are beneficial to labor unions and working people in general. We are pleased to have such a strong and long-time friend in the Kentucky Legislature, and ask that all our members in District 28 vote to re-elect him on November 8th.

ctions going on across the Commonwealth and Southern Indiana. In the e endorsed, and why we chose to support them. For a complete list of our

Tom Burch - Kentucky House District 30

Representative Burch holds the distinction of being the longest serving member of the Kentucky State House. During his time in Frankfort he has been extremely successful at strengthening government services for families and children. He has served as the Chairman for the House Health and Welfare Committee, where he has successfully worked to remove barriers to employment, allowing many Kentuckians the chance to join the workforce and lift themselves out of poverty.

Rob Walker - Kentucky House District 33

Born and raised in a small town in rural Kentucky, Walker comes from a union family thanks to his mother who spent her entire life as a public school teacher. Walker makes it clear he is not a career politician, and that he is committed to being a "citizen" legislator. If elected, he will bring over 13 years of legal and small business owner experience with him to Frankfort.

Jeff Donohue - Kentucky House District 37

As a UAW 862 retiree and former shop steward, Representative Donohue has been a steadfast voice for not only the Labor Movement but for all workers across the Commonwealth of Kentucky. When re-elected, Representative Donohue will continue to champion our causes and fight back against billionaire-backed out of state interests and their political puppets.

Russ Meyer - Kentucky House District 39

Representative Meyer has been serving in the Kentucky State House since 2014. Prior to that, he was Mayor of Nicholasville which is also in District 39. One of his legislative priorities is attracting good, high paying jobs to Kentucky, and providing high-skilled workers to existing employers. He is an opponent of "Right-to-Work" legislation because it does just the opposite by bringing in low paying, low skill jobs that are very anti-union.

Dennis Horlander - Kentucky House District 40

Representative Horlander has served in Frankfort for the past 18 years, and sits on several committees including House Banking & Insurance, Economic Development and Tourism, and Labor and Industry. His position on the Labor and Industry committee is a very important one to organized labor, as this committee is the first place where so-called "Right-to-Work" legislation is discussed. Thanks to Representative Horlander and our other allies in Frankfort, this deceptively named law has never passed committee.

Pam Sigler - Kentucky House District 45

As a former public school teacher, Sigler is familiar with unions and why it's important for highly skilled jobs to also have high wages and benefits. She has a long list of volunteer and humanitarian activities, and is a member of several professional organizations such as the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences, the American Evaluation Association, and the Kentucky Association of State Extension Specialists.

Al Gentry - Kentucky House District 46

A former Teamster, Gentry worked at the Kroger Distribution Center in his early 20's. His union wages afforded him the chance to attend and complete college, something he has never forgotten. His union roots make him a strong opponent of "Right-to-Work", and a major supporter of collective bargaining rights for all workers in order to help them achieve quality wages, benefits, and increased safety in their workplaces.

Maria Sorolis - Kentucky House District 48

Sorolis has a determined focus on investing in three key fields; education, infrastructure, and job creation. If elected, she will pursue these fields by fighting for a strong, well funded education system, funding to maintain and improve our streets, bridges, and aging infrastructure, as well as access to developing technologies such as broadband internet, and enacting laws that entice high-paying, high-skilled jobs to start or relocate to Kentucky.

Cyndi Powell Skellie - Kentucky House District 58

Cyndi Powell Skellie is a 23 year veteran teacher and the current leader of the Shelby County Education Association. She has made the "Nobility of Work" a significant part of her campaign platform, including protecting Kentucky from any sort of legislation that hurts working people, fighting for collective bargaining rights, protecting prevailing wage laws, and raising the minimum wage in Kentucky so that all workers can benefit from our State Government.

Jim Gray - US Senate - Kentucky

Gray has dedicated a significant portion of his campaign platform to Kentucky workers. While his opponent has attempted to push a National "Right-to-Work" law, which would cripple unions across the country, Gray's focus is on things that would actually help the average working person rather than the company they work for.

His goals of building stronger infrastructure and providing broadband internet access to rural Kentucky in order to give them greater job opportunities are commendable, and long overdue. He opposes any trade deals that damage the middle class, and wants to see advanced manufacturing jobs brought to the Commonwealth. These are just a few of the many worker centric goals Gray hopes to work towards in the US Senate. It is past time for Kentucky to have a Senator in Washington who puts the interests of working families above the interests of greedy CEO's and corporate profits. Jim Gray is the man to make sure that happens.

Terry Goodin - Indiana House District 66

We couldn't be more pleased to once again endorse Representative Terry Goodin for Indiana House District 66. As the representative covering Scott County, the home of Morgan Foods, he knows well the importance of good union jobs and has fought tirelessly against anti-worker legislation. Further, as an educator and a father, he is an advocate for the many issues facing working families.

Heidi Sellers - Indiana House District 70

Heidi Sellers is a retired teacher who educated Hoosier children for over three decades. She is also a developmental therapist for First Step Indiana, an early intervention program that helps children overcome developmental delays. Through her professional career, she has seen first hand the obstacles that working families often face. Now, she would like to take that understanding and experience to Indianapolis to bring solutions to help working people.

Steve Bonifer - Indiana House District 72

As a teacher in the New Albany Floyd County School Corporation and member of the New Albany Floyd County Teacher Association, Steve Bonifer knows the importance of protecting unions and working families. As an adamant opponent of the state's so-called "Right-to-Work" legislation, he hopes to be part of its eventual reversal. With an emphasis on education, jobs, the eradication of poverty and infrastructure, we know Bonifer will be a powerful voice for workers in the Indiana State House.

Shelli Yoder - US House of Representatives - Indiana Congressional District 9

Shelli Yoder has been a friend of Teamsters Local 89 for years. We have seen first hand her dedication and tireless work ethic, making us proud to see her continuing to fight for Hoosier workers in her candidacy for Indiana Congressional District 9. As an Indiana mother and educator with working class roots, she has the common sense approach to politics that we need in Washington.

John Gregg - Indiana Governor

John Gregg is just the person to pull Indiana back from the downward spiral that has occurred under Mike Pence and his predecessor. Gregg is a solid supporter for unions of working people and will work to reverse the anti-worker agenda that has plagued the State House. Along with the Teamsters, Gregg has the support of the entire Indiana Labor Movement.

Local Updates

Progression Grievance Victory at UPS Worldport

On July 31st of 2013, UPS posted bids for 125 full time jobs. These jobs were contractually obligated by the 2008-2013 Louisville Air Rider, which was to expire on August 1st, the very day after these jobs were posted. Due to the timing of when UPS posted these jobs, the first of these part-time to full-time bids was not completed until September of 2013, after the expiration date of the former contract.

Teamsters Local 89 immediately took the position that these jobs were to have the three-year progression of the 2008-2013 contract, as that was the agreement the jobs had been created for. UPS, however, took the stance that these jobs would be under the four-year progression of the new 2013-2018 contract.

Under the company's incorrect assertion, these 125 members would have had an additional year of progression unjustly added onto them. This would have resulted in a significantly lower income for these members during the fourth year, possibly as much as $13,000 dollars, as they would not have received their wage bump when they should have.

Through the grievance procedure, Trustee and Business Agent Brian Hamm was successful in forcing the company to do the right thing and agree to the correct three-year progression for these members. This victory will ensure that all of these 125 members bump up to at least $29.24 when they hit their three-year progression mark.

Thanks to Local 89's diligence, and despite UPS's best efforts to delay their raises for an extra year, many of these members will now be getting a raise of over $6 an hour on their proper progression date.

UPS Worldport Parking Lots

There have been recent reports of theft and vandalism in the employee parking lots at UPS Worldport. Rest assured, Teamsters 89 is working tirelessly with UPS Air District Security to resolve these issues. In the meantime, there are some common sense things that all Teamsters should be doing to protect their belongings while they're at work.

- Make sure you always lock your car doors when you go into work. Leaving your car unlocked makes it that much easier for a thief to take your belongings.
- Do not leave valuable items in your car. Remember, while you're at work your car will be sitting in a large parking lot for many hours. It's best to leave any valuable items at home, but if you do have to have them with you, make sure they aren't visible by placing them under car seats, or in your trunk. This includes anything of value, from college text books to cell phones. If it's worth something to you, it's worth something to a thief.
- If you see any suspicious behavior, such as people looking into car windows, or checking to see if doors are locked, please report it to UPS Air District Security (247-2274) immediately so they can investigate the situation.

Kentucky Truck Sales

Kentucky Truck Sales ratified a new agreement today by a twenty to four majority. The new agreement includes improvements to wages and vacation, as well as maintaining their existing healthcare and pension plans.

President Zuckerman and the rest of the Teamsters Local 89 Executive Board would like to thank Business Agent Rick Curtis and Stewards Tim Bryson (mechanics) and Jerry Wiseman (parts sales) who made up the union negotiating committee. Their knowledge and hard work made this new agreement possible.

Carhaul Contract Update

On Thursday, September 15th, the newest Tentative Agreement for the Carhaul national contract was rejected for the second time by a count of 1,811 NO, and 1,479 YES.

The Eastern and Western Supplements passed in their respective regions, while the Central-Southern Supplement was rejected. The largest of the Supplements by far, the Central-Southern covers many large Carhaul Locals, including Local 89. The Central-Southern Supplement was rejected by a margin of 1,810 NO, and 1,217 YES.

The IBT is not currently calling for any job action against the Carhaul employers, but says it will “evaluate all its options over the next several days.”

After Teamsters Local 89 leadership recommended a rejection, our members responded by turning in the largest margin of votes against the Tentative Agreement, with 400 NO votes and only 21 YES votes. Several other Local Unions, including 605 in Saint Louis and 964 in Cleveland also voted heavily against the new contract.

Teamsters Local 89 will continue to update our Carhaul members as soon as we learn any new information.
